The contractor for Crestview's $5.7 million Main Street renovation project aims to have it completed before Christmas, according to city officials.

That potential timeline would bring the project to a close about 2 1/2 months earlier than anticipated. The overall renovation began on March 11 of this year.

The city's contract with Bullard Excavation Inc., of Andalusia, Alabama, is a 365-day agreement, city Project Manager Jayce Vanderford said on Nov. 7.

Crestview's Christmas Parade is set to proceed up Main Street on Saturday, Dec. 7. Because of the ongoing renovation project, one possible scenario calls for northbound parade participants to turn left onto Beech Avenue and then onto Wilson Street, according to city information.

The total renovation project area covers a six-block portion of Main, generally between Industrial Drive and U.S. Highway 90, and includes parts of adjacent streets.

Hub City officials celebrate Big Brothers Big Sisters' new office

By Tony Judnich

Okaloosa County Commission Chairman Paul Mixon, right, praises the Big Brothers Big Sisters organization at the ceremony.

The Big Brothers Big Sisters of Northwest Florida office in downtown Crestview stands in an ideal location, said Katie Thompson, the nonprofit organization's area manager for Okaloosa and Walton counties.

"A lot of the kids who we serve are right over there," Thompson said on the morning of Nov. 8 while pointing to the neighborhood west of her Hub City office at 121 N. Wilson St.

Thompson stands in her Crestview office.

The office, which stands kitty-corner to City Hall, opened around February of this year and is part of BBBS' strategic growth plan to better serve the northern region of Okaloosa and Walton counties. On Nov. 8, the Crestview Area Chamber of Commerce helped officially welcome BBBS to the Hub City by leading a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the new office.

"We've had a need for Big Brothers Big Sisters for quite some time," Crestview Mayor J.B. Whitten told about 40 ceremony attendees, including Thompson and BBBS of Northwest Florida CEO Paula Shell. "Welcome to our beautiful city."

Big Brothers Big Sisters of Northwest Florida has been providing one-to-one mentoring services for children in Escambia, Santa Rosa, Okaloosa, Walton and Bay counties since 1989.

Each adult who volunteers to serve as a Big Brother or Sister in the mentoring program is asked to commit to volunteering for one year from the date their match opens. Each "Big" is then asked to see his or her "Little" at least twice a month, with weekly contact.

There is no charge to enroll a child in the mentoring program.

Thompson said her office currently has 24 children matched with a Big Brother or Sister and that about 30 other kids await matches.

At the ribbon-cutting ceremony, Okaloosa County Commission Chairman Paul Mixon encouraged adults to get involved with BBBS and become mentors because the children the organization assists represent "our future."

City of Crestview officials donated the space for BBBS' Hub City office. The building it occupies on North Wilson Street is leased by the city from CSX Transportation.

Besides the BBBS office, the building houses a contractor staging area, which currently is being used by contractors for the Main Street renovation project, and a studio where City Manager Tim Bolduc records his weekly "Crestview Leads" podcasts.

Voters extend Okaloosa's tax exemption program

By Tony Judnich
tony@crestviewbulletin.com

More than 70% of Okaloosa County voters approved a general election referendum to renew the county's Economic Development Ad Valorem Tax Exemption Program for another decade.

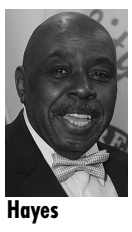

The referendum received 76,092 "yes" votes and 32,184 "no" votes.

The County Commission in 2004 was initially granted the authority to grant property tax exemptions for new and existing businesses that will create new full-time jobs subject to voter approval via a referendum. The EDATE incentive program provides temporary tax exemptions to eligible new and existing businesses that invest in facility improvements while creating new jobs with an average wage at 110% of the county's average wage or more.

The 10-year program was renewed in 2014. During the 2014-2024 cycle, the program was utilized nine times and a total of 229 net new jobs were created with the county exemptions realized totaling $74,555 through the 2023 tax year, according to county information.

Hayes defeats Butts, will rejoin Crestview City Council

By Tony Judnich

Hayes

A majority of Hub City voters who cast ballots in the general election agreed to return Shannon Hayes to the Crestview City Council.

In the nonpartisan race for the four-year council Group 1 at-large seat, Hayes, who served on the council from 2013 to 2022, received 5,773 votes, or 59.26% of the vote, according to unofficial results.

Butts

His opponent, Frederick Butts III, who is a community volunteer and retired U.S. Army veteran, received 3,969 votes, or 40.74% of the vote.

"I think I was deserving of the win," Hayes said. "I think I was the most qualified and the most experienced. I'm happy to serve the city for the next four years."

He said he looks forward to helping the city manage its continuing growth boom.

"We know Crestview is going to continue to grow," Hayes said. "Crestview is one of those cities that… most people I talk with like it here. The main issue, which we don't have control over, is traffic. But we can continue to advocate for additional (state and federal) funds and better roads."

The Group 1 at-large seat currently is held by Cynthia Brown, who did not seek re-election.

Hayes will be sworn into office at a ceremony set for 5:30 p.m. Nov. 18 at City Hall. Also being sworn in will be returning Mayor J.B. Whitten and new Group 2 at-large Councilmember Brandon Frost.

Whitten, who is a retired Air Force veteran and social studies teacher, ran unopposed and will return for a second four-year mayoral term.

Frost, who owns KG Plumbing Services of Northwest Florida, also ran unopposed for the Group 2 at-large seat. Its currently filled by Andrew Rencich, who lost his bid for the Okaloosa County Commission District 3 seat in the August primary election.

Sherri Cox topped a total of four other candidates to win the District 3 race.

The District Board of Trustees of Northwest Florida State College on Nov. 5 chose Okaloosa County District 5 Commissioner Mel Ponder as the college's next president, pending approval of an employment agreement by the board at its Nov. 19 meeting.

Ponder, who is a former Florida state representative and former Destin mayor and city councilmember, is wrapping up his four-year term on the County Commission. He was one of four finalists for the NWF State College president position.

Main Street

Among other tasks, Bullard Excavation and subcontractors on Nov. 7 were performing sidewalk work on the west side of Main Street and across from the Okaloosa County Courthouse.

City officials recently decided to make the courthouse area of Main, rather than the northernmost section between Cedar Avenue and U.S. Highway 90, the last part of the overall renovation project.

"The primary concern we had was the (larger) amount of court dates you have currently versus what you have during the end of November and December," city Operations Manager Wayne Steele said on Oct. 28.

Judges and County Administrator John Hofstad "were really concerned about the impact" on the court system, Steele said.

He added that the change in the overall renovation schedule also accommodated The Loft private event business, which stands across from the courthouse and had many weddings booked in October.

Overall, Bullard Excavation workers and subcontractors for the Main Street project "have really been so efficient" and have encountered fewer utility conflicts than anticipated, Steele said. "They saw the importance of getting in there and getting it done" with as little impact on businesses as possible.

Final renovation project tasks include the milling and resurfacing of Main Street in front of the courthouse. Angled parking spots in this area will be restored to maximize parking.

Angled parking spots in other phases of the project were replaced with parallel parking spaces, which allowed room for much wider sidewalks.

Initial tasks of the overall project included developing the 91-space public parking lot behind Desi's, Coney Island and other businesses.

The overall renovation also included the replacement of steps with ramped ADA-compliant entries to various businesses, the installation of new crosswalks, benches, street lighting, street signs, and landscaping, and improvements to intersections.

Staff report
news@crestviewbulletin.com

The new Dollar General Market in Blackman, north of Baker, is now open, Dollar General officials announced on Nov. 4.

The store stands at 7577 N. State Road 189 and is open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. It features an expanded selection of fresh meats, fruits and vegetables, as well as the same categories, brands and products customers trust Dollar General to carry, officials said in a news release.

A Dollar General Market will stand at 7577 N. State Road 189 in Blackman.

To celebrate, the company hosted a grand opening event on Nov. 9.

"We are excited to provide Baker residents with our new DG Market format and look forward to welcoming customers to our new location," Matthew Simonsen, Dollar General's senior vice president of real estate and store development, said in a statement. "At Dollar General, we believe the addition of our new Baker store provides positive economic growth for the community through the creation of new jobs and career growth opportunities; increased accessibility to affordable products; the generation of tax revenue and access to Dollar General Literacy Foundation grants. We strive to provide a pleasant shopping experience to customers and looking forward to being a strong business partner and good neighbor."

The new store is expected to employ about 10-15 people. Individuals interested in joining the DG team may review available positions and apply online at www.dollargeneral.com/careers.

The company provides employees with competitive wages, award-winning training and development programs and benefits, including day-one telemedicine eligibility as well as health insurance coverage options, 401K savings and retirement plans, tuition reimbursement, paid parental leave and adoption assistance to eligible employees.

"DG strives to be a good neighbor and is committed to the communities it proudly calls home, evidenced by unwavering support of literacy and education initiatives through the Dollar General Literacy Foundation," company officials said in the news release.

The addition of the Baker store opens the opportunity for schools, nonprofit organizations and libraries within a 15-mile radius of the store to apply for Dollar General Literacy Foundation grants. Since its inception in 1993, the foundation has awarded more than $254 million in grants to nonprofit organizations, helping more than 21.8 million individuals take their first steps toward literacy or continued education.

County hires firm to design new jail

By Tony Judnich
tony@crestviewbulletin.com

The firm that advised Okaloosa County officials to replace, rather than expand, the county courthouse in Crestview will design and plan the future county jail, which might have up to 2,000 beds and an up to $75 million construction cost.

The County Commission on Nov. 4 approved a three-year, not-to-exceed $7 million agreement with Securitecture LLC, of Noblesville, Indiana, to provide design and planning services for the new jail, the location of which has not yet been determined.

Of the three firms that made presentations, Securitecture was recently chosen as the most-qualified firm by a county review and selection committee. In what county Public Works Director Jason Autrey called a task-order based contract, Securitecture will begin the commission-approved Task Order 1, which consists of pre-design project definition/master planning services and could cost up to $370,000.

"We're excited to see this project move forward," Autrey told the commission. "It is much needed."

Future task orders valued at more than $100,00 each will go before the commission for its approval. The firm's scope of services includes design development, security consulting, and furnishings, fixtures and equipment.

Securitecture was instrumental in the county's decision to replace, rather than expand, the county courthouse, which opened in late 2018.

As a result of its efforts, the new courthouse "is a much less expensive and more efficient facility than the initially considered addition," Securitecture President Joseph Mrak said this past June in a letter to the county review and selection committee.

Sections of the existing county jail.

The company's tasks for the new jail do not include helping the county choose the facility's location. County officials do not have a timeline on when the site will be chosen.

The new jail will replace the outdated and long-overcrowded jail at 1200 E. James Lee Blvd. (U.S. Highway 90), northeast of Crestview's Twin Hills Park.

Commission Chairman Paul Mixon has said that adjacent residences and wetlands serve as barriers to expanding the existing jail, and that the cost of renovating it would far outweigh the cost of building a new one.

Among other requirements, county officials would like the site of the new facility to contain at least 40 acres and stand within five miles of the county courthouse in Crestview.

The existing jail has a design capacity of 594 inmates. It currently houses 772 inmates, according to county information.

Crestview-Fort Walton Beach-Destin tops 'Most Patriotic Cities' list

Staff report
news@crestviewbulletin.com

The Crestview-Fort Walton Beach-Destin metropolitan statistical area tops Veterans United Home Loans' 2024 list of the "10 Most Patriotic Cities" in the United States.

Veterans United is the nation's largest VA lender. Its top 10 list showcases the metros that are committed to their veteran communities and the democratic process – two of the most patriotic qualities an American can demonstrate, company officials said in a Nov. 7 news release.

"The markets we've highlighted as the top patriotic cities in the U.S. stand out for the support they provide veterans on a daily basis as well as for their community's strong commitment to the democratic process," Chris Birk, vice president of mortgage insight at Columbia, Missouri-based Veterans United, said. "These are truly special places to live that showcase the best of what our nation offers, not just to the broader community but especially to the veterans and service members who've served and sacrificed to safeguard our freedoms."

The most patriotic cities were identified based on veteran population, the presence of VA health facilities and veteran-owned businesses, voter turnout rate and the number of online searches related to Veterans Day.

The top 10 cities/metropolitan statistical areas in rank order are:

1. Crestview-Fort Walton Beach-Destin
2. Spokane, Washington
3. Colorado Springs, Colorado
4. Madison, Wisconsin
5. Salt Lake City, Utah
6. Columbia, South Carolina
7. Springfield, Missouri
8. Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton, Pennsylvania/New Jersey
9. Minneapolis-St. Paul-Bloomington, Minnesota/Wisconsin
10. Columbus, Georgia/Alabama.

The Crestview-Fort Walton Beach-Destin area ranks first on the patriotic cities list, largely due to its strong veteran population presence, with 17.6% of the population being veterans.

"It's home to Eglin Air Force Base, one of the largest military bases in the U.S.," Veterans United officials said in the news release. "The base offers a number of veterans services, such as financial counseling, transition assistance and employment workshops offered by the base's Airman and Family Readiness Center, making it a good place for veterans to call home."

Officials also said, "Veteran-owned businesses thrive here, with more than 700 veteran-owned businesses contributing to the area's economy, according to Census data. The Crestview area scored lower for VA health facilities, which are a bit limited for the large veteran population. The community also turns out in large numbers for local and national elections, with a voter turnout score of 78% in 2020, significantly larger than the 66% national turnout for the 2020 election.

"Additionally, the area hosts the annual Veterans Day parade in Fort Walton Beach, along with a wreath-laying ceremony at Beal Memorial Cemetery, which honors fallen service members and brings the community together in a tribute to their sacrifices."

(Editor's note: The city of Crestview also has an annual Veterans Day parade and ceremony.)

Elections supervisor discusses big voter turnout and new stickers

By Tony Judnich
tony@crestviewbulletin.com

A whopping 75.9% of Okaloosa County registered voters cast ballots in the general election, which saw overwhelming support for returning many Republican leaders to power.

That overall voter turnout rose just above Okaloosa's 75.7% turnout in the 2016 general election, in which Donald Trump defeated Hillary Clinton for president, but fell short of the county's record-high 78.24% turnout in the 2020 general election, when Joe Biden beat Trump for the presidency.

The Covid-19 pandemic played a major role in 2020's record turnout, county Supervisor of Elections Paul Lux said on Nov. 6.

"We did way more voting by mail in 2020 because of Covid," he said.

In this year's general election, the county broke almost every record for early voting but saw fewer people vote by mail, in part because of state Legislature-approved vote-by-mail ballot request restrictions, Lux said.

The county currently has more than 153,000 registered voters, including 87,365 Republicans and 26,005 Democrats.

Just over 70% of the county's voters cast ballots for Trump in this year's general election. A slightly higher percentage of them voted for Rick Scott in the U.S. Senator race, Don Gaetz in the District 1 state senator race, and Patt Maney in the District 4 state representative race.

A little more than 83% of county voters voted for Joel Rudman in the District 3 state representative race and almost 69% of them voted for Matt Gaetz in the District 1 U.S. representative race.

More than 56% of county voters voted "no" on Amendment 4, which would have added abortion rights to the Florida Constitution, and almost 53% voted "yes" for Amendment 3, which would have permitted the adult personal use of marijuana. Both amendments failed to receive the required 60% approval of voters statewide.

Lux, who has worked in the elections office since 1999 and began serving as the supervisor of elections in 2009, indicated that overall, this year's general election went smoothly in Okaloosa County.

"I had one report that was completely baseless," he said.

The report involved a voter who claimed he received a ballot in the mail with a premarked oval. After investigating, Lux found that the claim was false and based on something the voter had heard about from another state.

"It was someone trying to stir up trouble," Lux said.

Lux and his staff also had to deal with some flack over the county's new "I voted" stickers, which are given to voters after they've cast ballots at the polls.

The new stickers contain the county's logo, which features two Air Force jets flying over the Gulf of Mexico, sea oats, a pier, pine trees, white beach sand, and the sun on the horizon. The former stickers featured an American flag.

"Over the last couple of years, a number of people were unhappy with that tired, old oval sticker and wondered, 'Why don't we have a cool sticker?'" Lux said. "We thought we would do something fun. Some people were irritated that we didn't have a flag on (the new sticker). I had one person who was so incensed about the new sticker that he said he was going to contact our congressman (Matt Gaetz) about it."

The overwhelming number of comments about the sticker, however, were positive, Lux said.

"Maybe for future elections we'll incorporate a flag on it," he said.

For God's sake

By Rev. Mark Broadhead
Crestview

Before I retired, I remember attending worship with a different congregation while on vacation. I remember the pastor spoke very eloquently about a very fitting topic: being judgmental toward others. As I reflected on that sermon, even today I felt the preacher was right on track and got me thinking.

I say the message was "fitting" because if you listen to news outlets, read comments on social media, listen to conversations around you, especially in light of the recent national election, you will hear a great deal of judgmental pronouncements, pronouncements that are continuing to cause grave divisions and fears in our society.

There are judgmental statements around the topics where our country may be led by its new/returning leaders, immigration issues, ongoing topics of race, sexuality, culture, religious preferences, wealth or lack thereof…

Where does such judgmentalism come from? For the most part, it comes from an innate fear of anything or anyone that is different than "I," or life taking a turn that seems counter-productive. When someone or something different is encountered, it calls into question and challenges one's own sense of security, whether physically, emotionally, spiritually, politically, socially.

Most don't like to be challenged, or to entertain the notion that someone else may have a better idea or way of doing things. This is true because they do not want to acknowledge they themselves just might be wrong.

What does our Lord say about this? "Do not judge others, and you will not be judged. And why worry about a speck in your friend's eye when you have a log in your own?"

None of us is perfect. Each of us is different than everyone else to one degree or another. We all have our flaws.

So why not break the judgmental cycle? If you find yourself in the throes of being judgmental about others, why not stop to look at yourself first. Are you perfect? Are you always correct? Umm… nope!

Will you allow yourself to learn from someone who has a different point of view on politics, race, culture, or…? Your mind may not be changed, but because of your conversation, you will learn the other person is a human being, a child of God, who simply thinks differently.

If you see a matter going in a harmful, hurtful direction, speak up and say something. But do it with the best of intentions at heart. And this means being discerning, not judgmental. It is important to remember that every person with whom you come in contact is a child of God – just as you are.

Amber Anglin experiences miracles through faith

Photos by Jackson Buhler

jackson@crestviewbulletin.com

The Rev. Amber Anglin has experienced multiples miracles in her life. She and her husband were married in 2010, and then waited a few years before welcoming a son in 2014.

Two years later, Amber and her husband experienced more positive news when they found out they were pregnant again with their second child.

Amber was feeling well and was excited early in her pregnancy.

She and her husband went in for a routine check-up when her doctor discovered something was wrong. After doing tests, Amber was told that she had a molar pregnancy, which is a rare complication of pregnancy that occurs when an egg is incorrectly fertilized by sperm.

In a molar pregnancy, no embryo forms. In fact, the placental tissue that grows produces the pregnancy hormone. This can give a positive result on a pregnancy test. It happens in less than 1% of all pregnancies.

After an ultrasound was complete and no heartbeat was detected, they discovered there was no baby, only tissue.

Her doctor recommended she undergo a D&C the following week. The morning of her D&C, her body tried to shed the excess tissue which resulted in more than expected blood loss, requiring her to undergo emergency surgery. The surgery did not go as planned.

What was expected to be an out-patient surgery turned into something more dire. Her heart went into a third-degree block, when there is a complete failure of electrical conduction in the heart. In addition, the doctors could not stop the bleeding. The only option from that point was a hysterectomy.

But first, Anglin had to be stabilized. Anglin remembers while waiting to move to another room, multiple doctors and nurses told her she almost died.

"The lord kept me through that surgery," Anglin said.

She later found that she was born with a block in her heart, which compounded the blood loss.

The doctors kept trying to replace the blood she lost, but she was losing blood as fast as they could give it to her.

"I know you are faith people, so whatever you have to do to make this blood stop, you have to make it stop," her doctor said. "If we cannot make it stop, we are going to have this emergency hysterectomy."

Anglin and her husband wanted to have more children, so they started praying. They were joined by pastors Scott and Lisa Adams of Milligan Assembly of God church at the hospital.

"They prayed for us that day and spoke over us," Anglin said. "He told us that you are going to live and not die, and he just started speaking over my body."

Anglin was scheduled to have a hysterectomy the next day, but the bleeding stopped, and she no longer needed one.

She was finally able to go home after three days in the hospital. However, she was told by her doctor that they would monitor her HCG levels, as there was a risk for cancer, even though the risk was only two percent.

Anglin would go to her doctor's office in the coming weeks, with her HCG levels initially falling before rapidly rising.

In October 2016 with her levels rising, a warning sign for cancer, her doctor sent her to an oncologist in Pensacola.

After a CT scan, a chest x-ray and an MRI, scans revealed that Anglin had cancer in her uterus.

The oncologist scheduled a PICC line to be placed in her arm on Oct.18 and then for chemotherapy to start the next week.

Pastor White from Milligan Assembly of God Church comforted Anglin before her chemotherapy was scheduled to begin.

"We still have a few more days for the Lord to perform a miracle," White said.

During this time, Anglin was on the worship team and would have to sit down because of the PICC line.

She continued to rely on her church family for support and then the Friday before her chemotherapy was set to begin, her doctor called with positive news.

On Oct. 21, her HCG levels dropped by 20,000 units which caused her doctor to pause the chemotherapy and see what this meant going forward.

"We were praising God because we knew that He was performing miracles," Anglin said. "As I went back for blood work, my levels kept dropping and eventually I did not need chemotherapy, and they removed the PICC line. The Lord completely healed me of cancer."

Anglin was cancer free and in 2018, she and her husband were pregnant again – and they had a girl.

"It's a rainbow baby and a good luck sign for us," Anglin said. "For us to almost have a hysterectomy, to then having our daughter, it was a miracle."

But God wasn't done providing for Anglin.

In 2020, Anglin had COVID-19 which heightened her breathing issues. She was taking breathing treatments every single day, had two different inhalers and was not able to walk but a few steps without being able to breathe.

"I knew that the Lord had healed me of cancer in 2016 and we clung to that," Anglin said. "When he did not heal me of my breathing issues, that was a battle for me. I eventually did get my miracle, but I had to go through it. And the Lord wanted me to start running."

Anglin started running and running more until eventually she ran a half-marathon. Her breathing issues have since been cleared.

She is now a children's pastor at Milligan Assembly of God church and offered advice for anyone going through what she had to overcome.

"Lean into the Lord," Anglin said. "He truly does get you through it and you feel the Holy Spirit's presence with you."

VETERANS POST

by Freddy Groves

Homeless programs and services

Back in March, the Department of Veterans Affairs announced its goal of getting 41,000 homeless veterans into housing during this fiscal year. As of this time, they not only reached that goal, but exceeded it. Nearly 48,000 homeless veterans have permanent housing now.

The numbers are impressive. Not only did they exceed the intended number, but they surpassed their goal of keeping veterans in that housing, aiming for 95% who stayed. They reached 96% this year.

The VA's Housing First approach considers stable housing to be the first and most important in the whole menu of services and help that a veteran can receive. The model promotes the theory that getting veterans into stable housing should be first in the list of priorities, with other concerns -- such as completing an alcohol program or beginning treatment for mental health issues -- to be addressed afterward and not as a requirement to receiving housing services.

The housing program has a number of services, including working with HUD to provide vouchers to get into privately owned housing. Additionally, there are case managers who connect veterans to support services such as mental health treatment, legal services, health care, job training, counseling for substance abuse and employment services. The Housing First approach seems to be working, because veteran homelessness has been reduced over 50% since the program started in 2010.

For low income veterans with families, the VA has support services and case management that includes preventing homelessness or finding other housing. Go online to www.va.gov/homeless/ssvf/index.html for more information.

One additional form of help is available at the nearest VA medical center, where homeless coordinators can provide connection to all the homeless services.

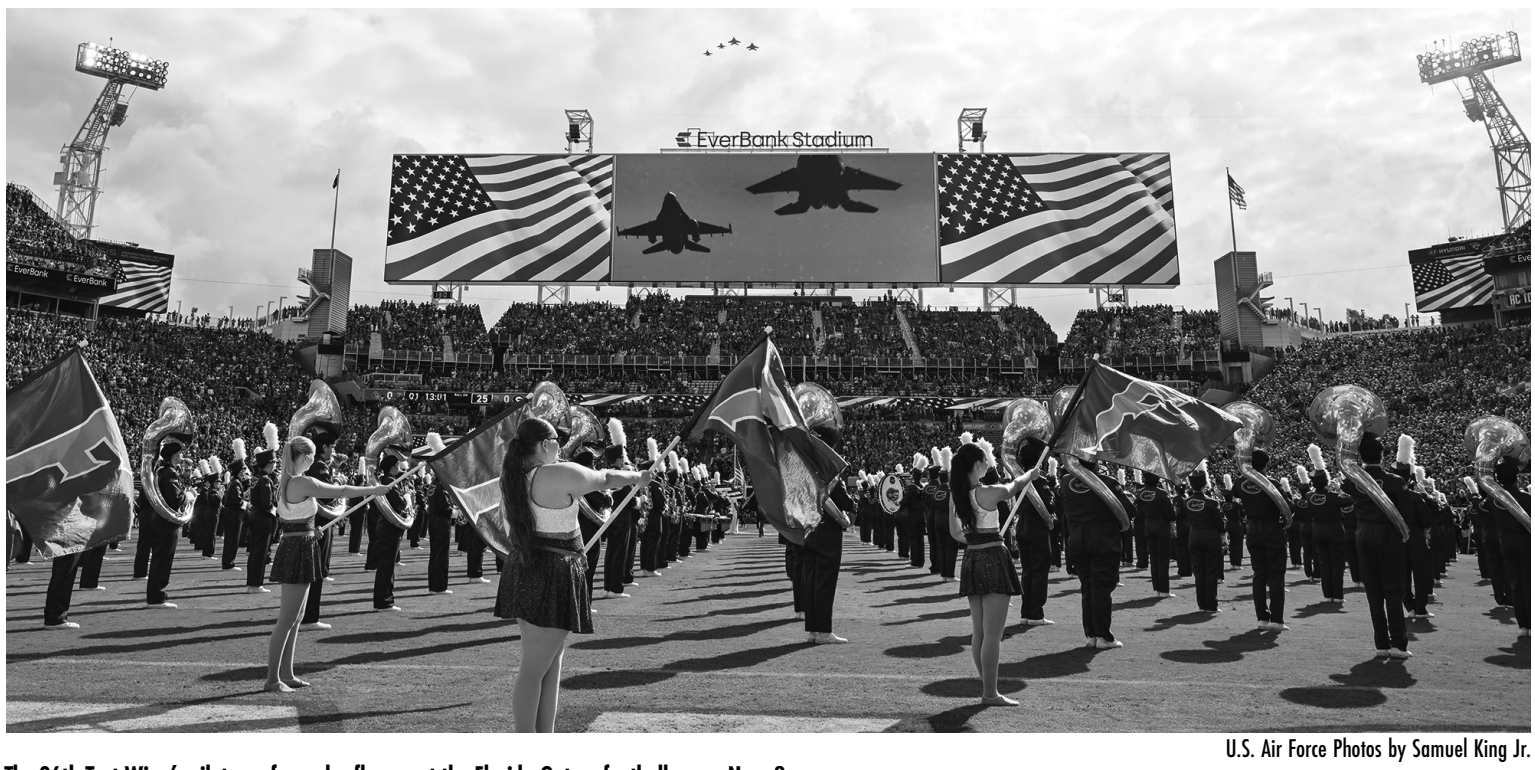

If you are a homeless veteran, or are at risk of becoming homeless, call the National Call Center for Homeless Veterans at 877-4AID-VET (877-424-3838) for help.

You can also go to the VA's homeless services webpage at www.va.gov/HOMELESS/housing.asp. On that same page, scroll to the bottom for 24/7 chat and a link to the nearest VA medical center.

Retired Capt. Evan Quiros presents a "Ghost Pilot" statue he crafted to U.S Air Force Lt. Gen. Michael Conley, Air Force Special Operations Command commander, during the final Forward Air Controller Association reunion at Hurlburt Field, Florida, Oct. 26, 2024. Engraved at the base of the statue is a poem by John Gillespie McGee, "For the pilots who 'slipped the surly bonds of Earth and danced the skies on laughter-silver wings' but never returned."

By A1C Tori Haudenschild
1st Special Operations Wing

Nearly 60 years ago, Vietnam-era forward air controllers arrived at Hurlburt Field, Florida to train how to coordinate air-to-ground strikes ahead of shipping out for the Vietnam War.

This month, those same Airmen returned for a final reunion with a ceremony held at the Memorial Air Park on Hurlburt Field, Oct. 26, 2024.

Base leadership welcomed Forward Air Controller Association members as they reconnected and shared past experiences while paying their respects to those who paid the ultimate sacrifice.

"We're excited to welcome you back and pay homage to the legacy you have set for every Air Commando following you," said Chief Master Sgt. Ralph Oliver, 1st Special Operations Wing command chief. "Thank you for your service and thank you for lighting the way."

Established in 1999, the FACA is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to preserve the history of the personnel who supported and flew the forward air controller mission during the war in Southeast Asia and serves as a collective point to share their stories and continue their legacy.

As members honored and remembered their fallen wingmen, the significance of it being the final reunion remained at the forefront.

"This will be a very fitting end, both a good and sad one, as we hold our last reunion where it all started," said retired Lt. Col. Claude Newland, the FACA reunion coordinator. "Our time has come as we are aging and eventually every 'last-man standing' organization must fold its tent."

Following the memorial ceremony portion of the reunion, retired Capt. Evan Quiros, presented a "Ghost Pilot" statue to Lt. Gen. Michael Conley, the commander of the Air Force Special Operations Command.

Sculpted by Quiros, the bronze statue is roughly a life-sized bust of a pilot wearing a helmet. The visor on the helmet is polished to give a ghost-like impression to represent those who have lost their lives, Quiros added. Engraved at the base of the statue is a poem by John Gillespie McGee, "For the pilots who 'slipped the surly bonds of Earth and danced the skies on laughter-silver wings' but never returned."

The design of the sculpture transformed over the years as Quiros experienced life's tragedies.

"I lost my daughter, her husband and my two grandkids in a plane crash in Colorado," Quiros said. "After mourning them and those I lost during the war, the sculpture evolved and my hope was for it to force people to reflect on the people in their own lives."

Serving as a reminder of past encounters, the Ghost Pilot statue has affected previous recipients like retired Col. Zot Barazzotto, forcing him to reflect on the lives lost during the war.

"It stirred emotions and feelings like nothing in my 80 years, I think the Ghost Pilot helped thaw my frozen feelings," Barazzotto noted.

Members of the FACA spent the remainder of the reunion sharing stories of their time in service, finding fellowship, and bolstering camaraderie while visiting the local area.

Aim for healthier hydration with a habit-building beverage

Family Features

Begin building tiny, healthier practices into routines you already have to help make it easier to establish habits you can stick to. This concept is called "habit stacking," and it can help you improve habits from morning to night.

Consider those busy mornings when you need an on-the-go solution – rather than opting for sugary foods and drinks, turn to Green Tea Berry Banana Smoothies that include unsweetened green tea. When incorporated as part of an overall healthy diet, unsweetened tea can support heart health.

This no-sugar-added recipe from Lipton, a proud national sponsor of the American Heart Association's Life is Why campaign, can help you enjoy healthier mornings while checking emails or hydrating before heading to the office.

Choosing beverages with no added sugars can contribute to a healthy heart, according to the American Heart Association, making these smoothies perfect for building into a morning routine. Because it's predominantly water, which is needed to keep your body running at its best, unsweetened tea provides a delicious way to hydrate without ditching those healthier habits.

Visit Heart.org/eatsmart to find more habits that contribute to heart health.

A first-timer's guide to kitchen remodeling

What to know before you begin

Family Features

Kitchen upgrades are among the most common renovation projects homeowners tackle. Even so, it's a big project for a first-time renovation, and the final results are sure to be stronger with some detailed planning from the start.

Take into account these five tips from the experts at Wellborn Cabinet to help first-time kitchen remodelers achieve the kitchens of their dreams:

1. Plan your budget

Establish a clear and realistic budget. Factor in costs for materials, labor and some extra for unexpected expenses. Sticking to your budget can help ensure you enjoy the outcome of the project while avoiding financial stress. Your contractor can help you strike a balance between your vision and financial resources. You may also find it helpful to consult with a real estate professional who can ensure your plans are in line with the overall value of your home and neighborhood.

2. Prioritize functionality

Design with practicality in mind. Ensure there's enough counter space and storage to create an efficient workflow. Consider the kitchen work triangle; that is, be conscious of the travel pattern among the sink, stove and refrigerator.

Additionally, look for opportunities to incorporate functional storage in unexpected places. One example is the exposed end of a cabinet run or side of the refrigerator, where there is often wasted space. One example is a shallow cleaning utility cabinet from Wellborn Cabinet that fits a broom, dustpan and everyday cleaning supplies neatly, giving you practical access to frequently used supplies. A variation on this cabinet offers a spice rack designed for easy access to cooking essentials. Other options in the line include an over-fridge cabinet with a combination of shelves, sheet pan or cutting board storage and a trash can-cutting board combination.

3. Choose quality materials

Consider factors such as durability, maintenance requirements and compatibility with your design aesthetic when selecting materials for your kitchen. You may be tempted to cut corners and stretch your money further, but quality materials are a critical element of successful renovations. Prioritize high-quality materials that stand the test of time. Durable countertops, solid cabinetry and reliable appliances typically save money in the long run, and they'll enhance the overall look and value of your kitchen.

4. Hire professionals

Work with experienced contractors and designers. Their expertise can help you avoid common pitfalls and ensure your remodel meets all safety and building codes. What's more, these professionals have likely encountered and overcome all kinds of challenges, which means they'll be well-prepared to help you navigate unexpected obstacles and provide a wealth of knowledge from previous clients to help make recommendations for the perfect finished space.

5. Stay flexible

Be prepared for unexpected challenges and delays. Stay adaptable and open to changes and remember patience is key to achieving the kitchen of your dreams. Materials go on backorder and paperwork gets misplaced all the time. Set a realistic timeline for your project that allows for some hiccups and try to avoid becoming too rigidly attached to any single element of the design, so if you have to make a modification, it doesn't feel like a monumental sacrifice.

Look for more ideas and inspiration for your kitchen remodel at Wellborn.com.

Inspiring ideas for kitchen islands

Adding an island to your kitchen offers many functional and aesthetic benefits, and there are styles to suit every type of kitchen.

Galley Kitchen Island

This type of island is more functional than design-forward, conveniently adding extra storage and counter space. This conventional configuration works well in most kitchen layouts, both large and small, and can be constructed to fit almost any kitchen.

Table-Style Kitchen Island

If you want a unique addition, an island table is the way to go, whether you opt for a custom-made piece or upcycle an antique. The beauty of a table-style island is that it serves a functional and decorative purpose, warming up a modern kitchen and adding personality.

Double Kitchen Island

Incorporating multiple islands – often called a double island kitchen – can improve traffic flow, increase storage space and seating, and create additional space for meal prep, cooking, washing and eating. Plus, islands are ideal for implementing design elements such as complementing materials and finishes, pops of color and unique cabinetry components including door styles and hardware.

Rolling Kitchen Island

This convenient solution adds flexibility with extra storage and counter space. You can easily tuck it away to open up more floor space when done, and this portable island can easily roam around the kitchen so you can place it where you need it.

Two-Tier Kitchen Island: While you can cook and eat on any island, the two-tier creates a clear boundary where you can cook on one side and eat on the other. This all-encompassing island is perfect for larger families and homeowners who like to entertain.

Chef's Kitchen Island

If you want to showcase your cooking skills or have a private chef cooking for friends and family, a chef's island is a unique solution. Installation requires the appropriate ventilation and electrical, which may be well worth it if you frequently cook for family or friends.

Round Kitchen Island

Compared to a typical rectangular island, a rounded option is an eye-catching way to add more seating in your kitchen for entertaining family and friends.

L-Shaped Kitchen Island

If you have a lot of space in your kitchen, an L-shaped island can fill the area. The design provides extra cooking space, allowing you to accommodate multiple chefs in the kitchen. You can also add seating for family and friends.

U-Shaped Kitchen Island

Best suited for large, open-concept kitchens, a U-shaped island creates storage space and room to install appliances such as a bar fridge, sink or range with prep space left to prepare meals.

ENERGY EFFICIENCY
TIP OF THE MONTH

If you're heading out of town during the holiday season, remember to set your home to vacation mode. You can save energy while you're away by lowering your thermostat and your water heater a few degrees

Small actions can also stack up to energy savings. Unplug devices that consume energy when they're not in use, including phone chargers, toothbrush chargers, TVs and gaming consoles.

For more ways to save, call your CHELCO Energy Advisors at (850) 307-1122 or email energyservices@chelco.com.

Correction

In the Nov. 7 edition of the Crestview News Bulletin, it was incorrectly reported that Bulldog golfer Katyln Maynard beat Niceville's Tenley Sharron in a playoff at the District 1-3A tournament in Pace to secure a regional berth. Maynard actually beat the Eagles' Camryn Lux.

EDITORIAL

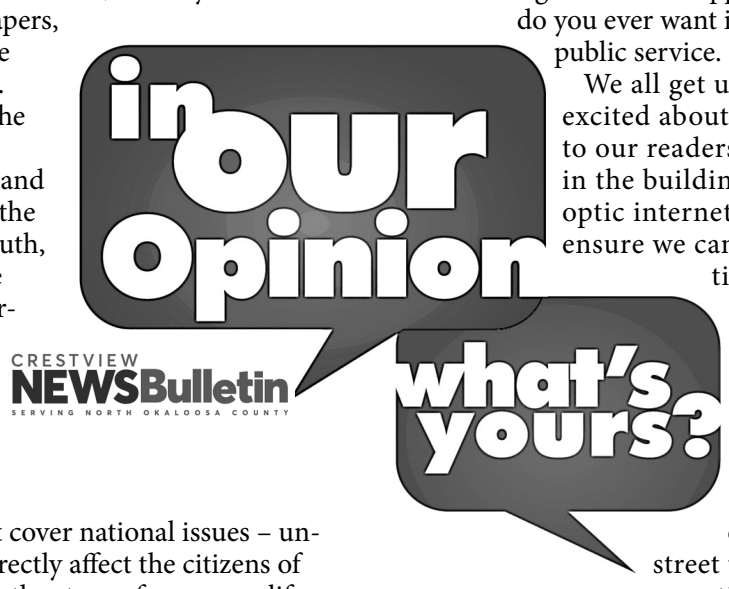

In Our Opinion

Passion for what you do

You cannot be in our business without having a passion for all things newspapers. Well, let us clarify; you cannot stay in this business without having a passionate love for it.

We met a guy at an event we attended recently who questioned if people even read newspapers anymore. He said he got his news "online." We asked if he really trusted what he read online and he said, "mostly."

Here is the beauty of newspapers, at least this one anyway. We are committed to you – the reader. We want to provide you with the information you need to make decisions in your personal life and work life. We speak truth into the pages of the paper – not our truth, your truth, the left truth or the right truth. It is fact-based journalism, and you decide what the information means to you and how you use it. We believe our readers are smart and don't need to be told what to believe.

We stay in our lane; we don't cover national issues – unless it is something that will directly affect the citizens of Crestview. We are interested in the story of you, your life and how you are affected by what happens in Crestview.

We attend the city council meetings on your behalf to give you the latest information on what the city government is doing. What projects are they working on to make life better for you? What decisions did they make that could have an impact on you?

We go to school board meetings for you, so you have the information of what is going on in your child's classrooms. We cover your child's sporting events – and we make them sports stars on the pages of our paper. We recognize students with high GPAs with our Student of the Week on the education page. We do the same for our athletes. Your children are future leaders, city council members, mayors, scholarship winners, doctors and more. They will hold the keys to the success of our community – and we are there every step of the way.

The greatest thing about newspapers is – they cannot be altered or changed. It is the written printed word. When stories only appear online, they can be modified, things can be changed or even deleted. History can be rewritten to suit agendas (sound familiar)?

Lastly, we will say this. The gentleman we met at the event didn't like paying for the news or advertising. The media is not a government supplemented business, nor do you ever want it to be. It is not a free public service.

We all get up in the mornings, excited about what the day will bring to our readers. We turn on the lights in the building, run high-speed fiber optic internet service with backups to ensure we can always get the information out. We pay to print the newspapers and the postage to send them to your mailbox. We pay chamber of commerce dues to be good stewards in our community. We pay our staff – the ones who go out to the street to find the stories, sit in meetings, attend press conferences, interview our teachers and bring the stories to life in our paper. We pay the people who layout these pages, help with subscriptions, who send out the bills, and all who work very diligently to make sure our product is excellent.

We could not exist without our subscribers and advertisers. And we thank every single one of you. Just know that we are like every other small business; we employ people and we have bills to pay too. It would not be smart of us to give away our product that we work hard to produce. You wouldn't walk into a small retail store (or large one for that matter) and say – I can't believe you are going to make me pay for this. So the next time you see someone on our social media accounts say something like – you are going to make me pay to read this? Please enlighten them on what it takes to bring the news to you.

Core Values:

The truth is our currency: We must know the truth to make good decisions. The same with our community – they must know the truth.

Excellence is our ordinary: We don't do average – we only do extraordinary.

Personal Accountability: When there is a problem, you are part of the solution.

Passion for what you do – you either love it or leave it. You need to be/should be passionate about our mission.

We are not here for us: We are part of something much bigger than ourselves. We are here to serve our community. To do that, we must make money and that is where circulation and ads come in.

There is no task beneath me.

Passion: Passion is when you put more energy into something than is required to do it. It is more than just enthusiasm or excitement, passion is ambition that is materialized into action to put as much heart, mind body and soul into something as is possible.

STATE NEWS News Service of Florida

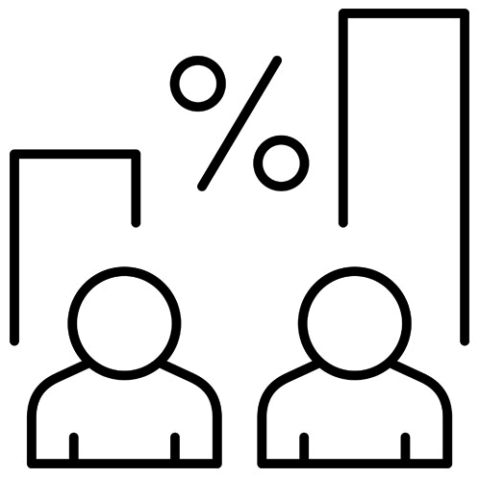

8.28M ballots cast

As voters went to the polls Tuesday on Election Day, more than 8.28 million ballots had already been cast in Florida. Data posted on the state Division of Elections website showed that 8,281,771 ballots had been cast by mail or at early voting sites.

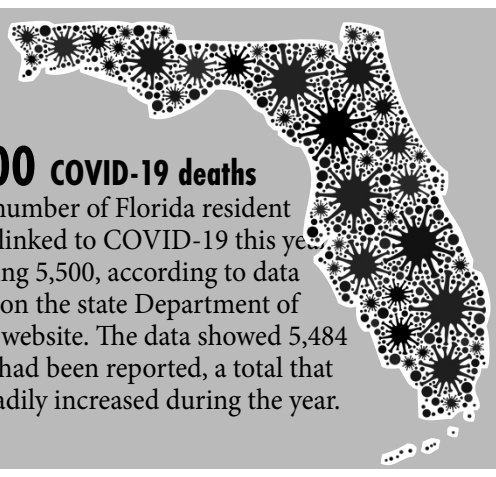

$200M loss

The Chubb insurance company said its pre-tax losses from last month's Hurricane Milton totaled $250 million to $300 million. The company announced the estimate in a brief news release Friday that said the after-tax loss amount would be $208 million to $250 million.

78% voter turnout

Almost 11 million Floridians voted on Nov. 5 elections, with statewide turnout at 78.76 percent, according to data posted on the state Division of Elections website.

5,500 COVID-19 deaths

The number of Florida resident deaths linked to COVID-19 this year is nearing 5,500, according to data posted on the state Department of Health website. The data showed 5,484 deaths had been reported, a total that has steadily increased during the year.

Trump wins 61 Florida counties

As he piled up 6.1 million votes Tuesday in Florida, Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump carried 61 of the 67 counties, according to unofficial results posted on the state Division of Elections website. Democrat Kamala Harris won in Alachua, Broward, Gadsden, Leon, Orange and Palm Beach counties. Her margin over Trump in traditionally Democratic Palm Beach County was 5,511 votes out of 738,553 cast. Overall, Trump received 56.11 percent of the vote, while Harris received 42.97 percent, according to the Division of Elections.

Amendment 4 opposed in rural, panhandle counties

While it had widespread support in urban areas, a ballot proposal that would have enshrined abortion rights in the state Constitution ran into opposition Nov. 5 in rural and Northwest Florida counties, according to data posted on the state Division of Elections website. The proposal, known as Amendment 4, failed to pass when it did not receive support from a required 60 percent of voters. While large numbers of voters supported the measure in areas such as Broward, Duval, Hillsborough, Miami-Dade, Orange, Palm Beach and Pinellas counties, majorities opposed it in 40 counties. As an example, in Northwest Florida, majorities opposed the measure in Bay, Calhoun, Escambia, Franklin, Gulf, Holmes, Jackson, Liberty, Okaloosa, Santa Rosa, Wakulla, Walton and Washington counties. As another example, in south-central Florida, majorities opposed the proposal in DeSoto, Glades, Hardee, Hendry, Highlands and Okeechobee counties. Statewide, the proposal received support from 57.1 percent of voters.

All counties back hunting, fishing amendment

A constitutional amendment on hunting and fishing rights was backed Nov. 5 by majorities of voters in every county, as it received more than 67 percent support statewide. The measure, which appeared on the ballot as Amendment 2, was one of only two constitutional amendments that passed. The other, Amendment 5, made a property-tax change and received support from 66 percent of voters. Amendments need at least 60 percent support to pass. Amendment 2 said, in part, that it will "preserve forever fishing and hunting, including by the use of traditional methods, as a public right and preferred means of responsibly managing and controlling fish and wildlife." While the proposal drew opposition from some groups such as the Sierra Club, results posted on the state Division of Elections website showed broad support. Among large and mid-sized counties, the outcome was closest in Alachua County, where the amendment passed by 4,400 votes. Four other amendments on Tuesday's ballot received more than 50 percent of the vote but did not reach the 60 percent threshold. That included amendments on allowing recreational use of marijuana and enshrining abortion rights in the Constitution.

"Over the weekend, more than 60 percent of Florida filling stations had gas prices below $3 a gallon. There's a good chance the state average dips below $3 a gallon in the coming days." AAA spokesman Mark Jenkins said in a prepared statement. The average price of a gallon of regular unleaded gas in Florida dropped 13 cents the week of Oct. 28 to just over $3.

FLORIDA RISING TOGETHER

"Following through on her campaign promises to reform the criminal legal system, Ms. Worrell was doing nothing other than meeting her professional and ethical obligations and exercising her prosecutorial discretion." the group Florida Rising Together said in a pending lawsuit. Monique Worrell, a Central Florida state attorney suspended by Gov. Ron DeSantis last year, won back her job. Worrell asked the Florida Supreme Court to reinstate her to the post, but justices in June upheld the governor's action. Two voters and the group Florida Rising Together also filed a federal lawsuit challenging Worrell's suspension.

Jobless claims dip after post-storm increases

Unemployment claims in Florida reverted to a more-normal pace after two hurricanes created brief increases. The U.S. Department of Labor on Nov. 7 estimated 6,590 initial unemployment claims were filed in Florida during the week that ended Nov. 2, down from a revised count of 8,371 during the week that ended Oct. 26. After Hurricane Helene made landfall Sept. 26 in Taylor County and caused damage in other areas of the Gulf Coast, weekly claims jumped from 5,535 to 9,556. The claims number eased to 6,299 during the week that ended Oct. 12. But after Hurricane Milton made landfall Oct. 9 in Sarasota County, claims rose to 10,800 during the week that ended Oct. 19. Before Helene, the state had averaged 6,351 weekly claims this year. The Florida Department of Commerce will release an October unemployment rate on Nov. 15, potentially reflecting effects of the hurricanes. Florida had a 3.3 percent unemployment rate from April through September. Nationally, an estimated 221,000 claims were filed last week, up from 218,000 during the previous week.

Broome taking on bigger role for Gator basketball team

Photos by Jackson Buhler

Owen Broome attempts a lay-up at a Baker practice.

By Jackson Buhler
jackson@crestviewbulletin.com

Baker's Owen Broome has more than just games to play this season.

He must be a leader on the floor for the Gators as well.

Broome is the lone senior for the Gators, meaning he must bridge the gap between the players and first-year head coach, Chad Martin.

It has been a long journey for Broome as he began his varsity career as a sophomore.

"I have gone from one of the youngest players on the team, to now the oldest and at first I was nervous," Broome said. "But now, a lot of the younger players have stepped up to help me ease in that transition."

Baker is trying to get back to the playoffs in 2024-25 after missing the postseason a year ago.

Since that 2022-23 season, Broome has grown immensely on the court.

"I have become a much better shooter, which has improved my overall game," Broome said. "Also, the experience I have gained in these three years has helped me. When you are as young as I was, it's nerve-racking. But when you have been through it, you get used to it."

Owen Broome participates in a drill at Gator practice.

That experience will help the Gators as they welcome nine new players to the varsity squad, including one transfer in A.J. Chilton.

"I tell them just to take their time," Broome said. "You will get your feet set underneath you, but you have to play on the court to experience it and figure it out."

Broome is hoping that his teammates learn quickly as he knows they have the talent to go very far.

Broome said this is the most talented team he has been on in his three years, and he hopes the team will make the community of Baker proud.

"This season definitely means a lot," Broome said. "This could be my last chance playing organized basketball so there is a little bit more added pressure. I believe we will live up to the pressure."

Jackson's View

with Jackson Buhler

jackson@crestviewbulletin.com

The FHSAA state playoffs start this week, which means every team, including Baker school, will be in postseason mode.

It's a great time of year as these schools can reap the benefits of the work they have put in since late July.

Winning teams can lift a trophy, celebrate with their teammates and then go home and be honored by their schools.

Except this year, multiple teams from the rural classification in Florida will be celebrating.

How does this happen?

Earlier this year, the Florida High School Athletic Association announced that the classification, which includes Baker, will be introducing an "A" and a "B" bracket.

The entire classification consists of 34 teams but two teams as of this writing, have dropped out of qualification.

It leaves the other 32 teams split into two sides with the top 16 ranked teams in the state put into the "A" bracket while programs ranked 17th and below into the "B" bracket.

Finalists from both brackets will then play at the Villages in Central Florida.

I thought the whole point of sports is to win the game.

Apparently, the state of Florida does not believe in that because you will have winless teams competing in the "B" bracket and be eligible for postseason play.

Why do the top teams in the state have to win to make the playoffs?

Also, this is the only classification of eight, that participates in this.

In classes 1A-7A, there is district and regional play to see what programs qualify for the playoffs.

Last year, Pace went 8-2 overall and did not qualify for the state playoffs.

We tell a team it must go nearly undefeated to have a chance to make the state playoffs, but it is okay for other schools to go winless and have the same experience as teams that go undefeated.

Does the regular season count for anything?

At this point, schools in the rural classification should treat every game like it is a preseason or jamboree contest.

They can play their starters for half the game and then let backup players go in to finish the contest, to preserve their high-level players for a postseason run.

All of this can also lead to something worse down the line.

For a decade now, fans of college football have seen their favorite players opt out of bowl games to not risk an injury before the NFL Draft.

NFL teams have been employing a similar strategy as once their seeding is determined for the playoffs, they will then rest their top players in preparation for a deep playoff run.

High school football teams might start doing the same thing.

To avoid playing a top team in group "A", some schools might start to sit their top student-athletes to instead receive an easier path in the state playoffs.

What are we teaching our future generations?

Lose and you will end up in a better situation?

The FHSAA needs to step in and fix this for the future.

We cannot teach people that you can get rewarded for being a step behind someone else.

Toney looking to take Crestview girls basketball team to new heights

Natalie Toney goes up for a lay-up during Bulldog practice.

By Jackson Buhler
jackson@crestviewbulletin.com

Crestview basketball star Natalie Toney has already made her name known for her stellar play.

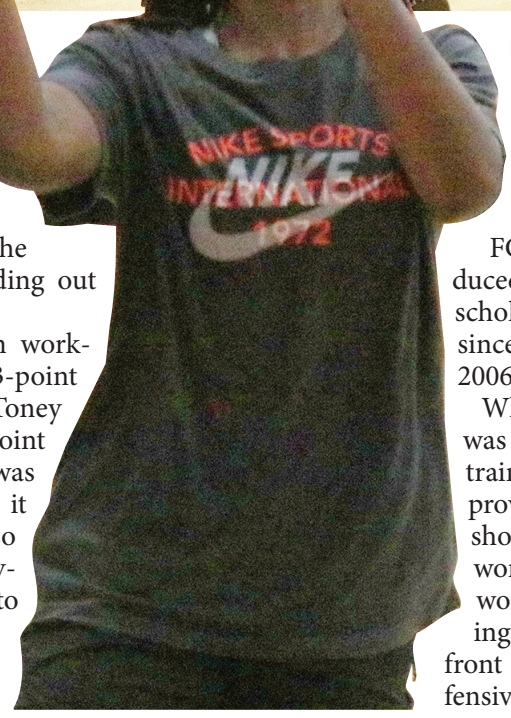

Now in her junior year, she's looking to make her star even brighter.

Last year, Toney led the Bulldogs with 13.3 points per game on 38% shooting.

She was also great defensively, averaging nearly two steals and a block per contest as well.

Toney did not rest on her laurels during the off-season as the guard spent the summer rounding out her game.

"I have been working on my 3-point jump shot," Toney said. "My 3-point percentage was not where it needs to be, so I have been trying to get that to a higher level."

Natalie Toney drives to the basket during a recent practice.

She spent the summer in Leesburg, Florida with the AAU team, FGB. FGB has produced over 250 college scholarship athletes since its inception in 2006.

While there, Toney was able to work with trainers as well to improve her long-range shooting while also working on her footwork and conditioning so she can stay in front of opponents defensively without fouling.

Crestview went 13-13 last season, falling in the district tournament to Niceville. A year prior, the Bulldogs went 21-8 and advanced to the regional tournament.

Toney believes that working in tandem with her teammates will help them get back into the state playoff race.

"A key for us this year will be working together and making sure we are on the same page," Toney said. "I'm trying to win a state championship. It is our main goal."

Annalese Saunders spikes a ball at the net.

The Baker volleyball team saw its season end last Monday afternoon in the Rural Classification state semifinals, falling to Branford in a five-set thriller.

Baker ends the 2024 campaign at 11-13 after losing 18-25, 25-19, 19-25, 25-20 and 8-15.

For the Gators, it was another successful season as they won the district and regional championship, a year after claiming the state title.

They also went 5-1 against district opponents during the season, defeating rival Jay three separate times which included two wins in a nine-day span.

Seniors Kaleigh Moss and Madolyn Mills had outstanding years with over 400 kills between them.

Moss led the Gators in both kills and hitting percentage (.197) while Brooke Brunson, a senior, added a team-best 343 assists on the year.

Defensively, fellow senior, Mckenzie McGraw led the way with over 280 digs.

Watson has Bulldog basketball ready to go

Photos by Jackson Buhler

Crestview boys basketball players participate in a scrimmage during practice.

By Jackson Buhler
jackson@crestviewbulletin.com

Crestview boys basketball head coach Greg Watson is ready to see his young team in action.

That will come soon enough as the Bulldogs tip off the new year Nov. 19 against Enterprise.

The Bulldogs are coming off a tough end to their season as they fell by one possession in a district tournament game against Gulf Breeze.

Watson knows this year's squad will be much different with star shooting guard, Makhi Jones, and six other seniors graduated from last year's team.

Crestview players battle during a drill.

"We are going to be young, but all of the guys on this year's team have already played together," said Watson. "The determining factor for them will be how long it takes for them to adjust to this level."

With the season split in two parts, normally the first half of the year before winter break would be a time to determine rotations and playing time.

However, the Bulldogs need to get off to a fast start as any loss early in the season could be detrimental in the regional rankings.

The Bulldogs will look to use their athleticism to their advantage, aiming to press on defense, play fast offensively and be balanced.

During the offseason, most of the team plays in the AAU circuit for the Crestview Elite Bulldogs, something that Coach Watson knows will impact team chemistry in a positive way.

"This group has played together for the last six or seven years, so it makes a big difference in the way they play together," Watson said. "They already have a bond playing together, so it will a key to our early success."

Watson has high expectations for the team, even with a tough schedule that includes Milton, Gulf Breeze, Tate and Niceville.

"We are going to play our best and make a run in the district championship," Watson said. "If we can make it to the playoffs, then anything can happen."

New coach, new year for Crestview's girls basketball team

By Jackson Buhler
jackson@crestviewbulletin.com

Crestview's girls basketball team enters the new season with high expectations.

The Bulldogs will also be entering the year with a new coach.

Andrica Durm-Williams steps into the head coaching position after being an assistant for the Bulldogs.

After falling in the district tournament last year, Durm-Williams expects her team to carry the experience they gained from last year into this year as they return most of the team.

"The team is very close this year," Durm-Williams said. "They've played together since middle school and that chemistry they have together will help us."

Many of the girls also play AAU basketball together, which Durm-Williams also believes will be a factor early in the season.

"It's great competition for our players because they get to play together and play against each other, which helps them push each other to get better," Durm-Williams said.

Natalie Toney, the Bulldogs' leading scorer from a season ago, returns for her junior year after averaging 13 points and two steals.

Madison Hankerson, a guard, is someone that Durm-Williams expects to take a big jump in her senior year, giving the Bulldogs explosiveness in the backcourt.

"She (Madison) sparked some things in her game that has taken her to a new level," Durm-Williams said. "She is going to be a very competitive player for us and a good asset for us this year."

The two of them make up a backcourt with high basketball IQ offensively while having speed and intensity on defense.

More height across the board will give the defense more of a presence in the paint, which was missing from last year's team.

"Our front court is just as aggressive as our guards on defense, but more height will also allow us to crash the boards, especially on offense," Durm-Williams said.

With the season about to get started, Durm-Williams is eager to see how her team plays against a tough schedule.

"I want to see us be consistent," Durm-Williams said. "We have a lot of returning players, so I expect us to compete at a high level very quickly.

Fogarty making difference at Antioch Elementary as teacher of the year

By Jackson Buhler

Antioch Elementary teacher, Faith Fogarty, has been teaching for 12 years.

She started in nearby Bay County before moving to Okaloosa County where she has been for the last seven years, teaching math and reading.

Fogarty's career didn't start with teaching. Fogarty began as a mental health counselor specializing in helping children and adolescents. During a break from counseling, Fogarty entered the school system as a substitute teacher. She has never looked back since that moment.

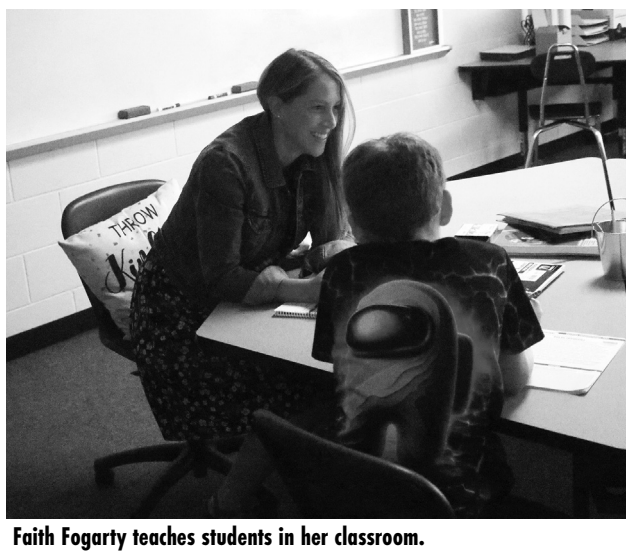

"Once I jumped in, I loved it," Fogarty said.

It was an easy transition for Fogarty going from mental health counseling to teaching, as she spent most of her time teaching in special education classes.

Before she came to Antioch Elementary, Fogarty was teaching all subjects in "varying exceptionalities" courses. These could range from students having language impairments, motion behavior disability or intellectual disability.

Now, at Antioch, Fogarty teaches "intervention" courses for fourth and fifth graders.

Students in these courses have disabilities, but these courses help them fill in the gaps in regular classrooms.

Faith Fogarty teaches students in her classroom.

"I like the connection that you can build with fourth and fifth grade students," Fogarty said. "It is a different kind of connection that you can have with younger students."

Fogarty has seen herself grow in her 12 years as a teacher, as she has been able to quickly find where her students are struggling the most and then be able to target that issue, so they are more prepared for future subjects.

Last year, Fogarty instituted a tutoring program for students, something that did not exist yet for her students, in her classroom since they were missing time due to commitments outside of school such as speech and language classes or occupational therapy.

"We wanted to find a way to give them those services without pulling them out of the classroom even more," Fogarty said. "We saw a lot of growth them for doing that."

Having her peers select her as teacher of the year is not lost on Fogarty, especially since her classroom is heavily supported by paraprofessionals and aides.

"My job is to help support them in what they are doing and add on to that," Fogarty said. "If they think that I am doing that well, it is a huge compliment."

French sister city brings students and culture to Crestview

Crestview and French exchange students participate in the pumpkin carving.

Crestview high school hosted their sister city, Noirmoutier, and their students for two weeks during the month of October.

The city of Crestview and Noirmoutier have had a relationship since 1995, with the cities exchanging cultural, social and educational ideals.

27 people made up the group which consisted of 20 students, six adults and one child. Also, among were two English teacher from schools in Noirmoutier.

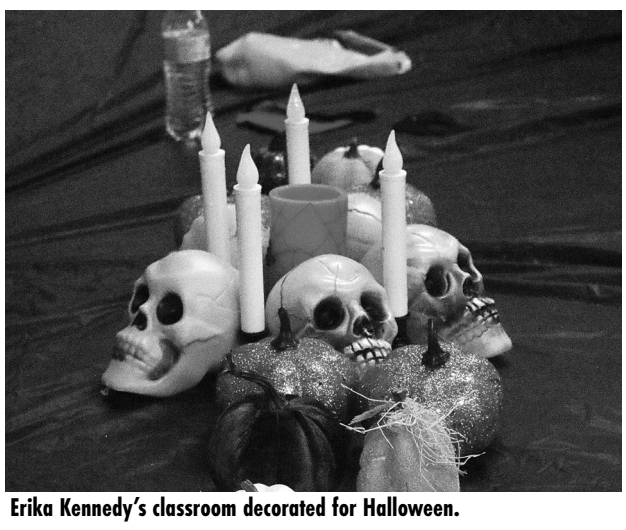

During their two-week trip to Crestview, French students had the opportunity to visit Crestview high school for three days.

October was selected as the time for the visit because the French students do not celebrate Halloween in France in the same way that Americans do.

Crestview high school ambassadors threw a Halloween party for the students, featuring Halloween music and line dances. French students in turn taught Crestview students the traditional French dances as well. They also received a tour of the school.

Crestview students carve pumpkins during the school day.

Erika Kennedy's classroom decorated for Halloween.

"It was a dream," French student Charlotte Fonteneau said. "To be there, I was very grateful. We were very happy to be there and meet good people and experience a new culture."

On Halloween morning, the Bulldog pack class which consisted of Crestview high school sophomores and juniors, taught the French students how to carve pumpkins.

"Halloween is not a very famous thing in France, so to be able to see how they celebrate this in America is very cool," French student Charline Drie said.

The students were also able to paint pumpkins, go to high school elective classes, and learn about the school day. Also, they attended a road game for the Crestview football team.

A typical French school day lasts from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., with most of the day focusing on core classes such as math, science, history and French.

"For Crestview students to learn about how lucky we are to have all of these fun classes, where you realize where you stand in society, it has been very impactful on our students," Crestview teacher Erika Kennedy said. "They are grateful for what they have to be in a school like ours."

French schools are like boarding schools as the students stay at the school for the five days of the week, and then go home on the weekends.

"It was great to see what we have and how grateful we should be for our school," Crestview senior Breelyn Toups. "Seeing them so excited for things that we think are simple such as automotive or CTE classes, it really just gives me a different perspective on what I should be grateful for."

A bumpy economy and rising cost of living have Americans rethinking their finances.

In fact, about 36% of households feel anxious about their current financial situation, according to the Financial IQ Study by World Financial Group.

Although short-term pressures and demands can make it difficult, developing a financial strategy based on both literacy and resilience is key to establishing a solid financial future. To many, financial literacy and financial resilience mean the same thing. In fact, financial literacy refers to knowledge, while resilience means you are more likely to be prepared for unexpected financial events.

Wondering where to start? Here are some tips to help build a more financially sound future.

Review your current financial situation

Having a firm grasp on your current income and expenses can provide insight into adjusting your finances to reach your goals. Most households believe the day-to-day cost of living is a key short-term financial priority. While meeting your immediate needs is essential, so is planning for the future. Determining what money is coming in and what you owe each month tells you how much is left for discretionary spending and saving.

Start saving now

It's never too early to start saving. Even a modest amount set aside every month will grow into a more meaningful account balance over time. A common rule of thumb is 20% of your overall income. You can stretch your income further by taking advantage of options like employer retirement savings programs that deduct funds before taxes, especially if the employer matches your contributions.

Consult a financial professional

You don't have to be a financial whiz to create a smart plan for your future. Financial professionals can help design a strategy tailored to your specific needs. They specialize in helping individuals and families find financial confidence through life insurance, retirement and wealth-building strategies. You can take a financial literacy quiz to assess your financial resilience and measure your readiness to withstand economic challenges.

Prepare for unexpected expenses

Unexpected events can have catastrophic impacts on household finances. For example, leaving the workforce early due to illness could mean years of lost earning power, which could impact your short- and long-term priorities. Other examples, like unplanned home repairs or medical expenses, can also make a major dent in your financial plan. Creating an emergency fund, separate from a savings account, can help offset the impact of unexpected expenses.

Safeguard your family

Losing a family member can bring much more than heartbreak, especially if that person's income factors heavily into the household budget. However, different types of life insurance are designed to help safeguard your finances and can accommodate different budgets and lifestyles.

Term life insurance offers individual life insurance protection for a specified number of years. It's usually less expensive than permanent insurance with the same face value. Permanent life insurance, including whole-life coverage, remains in effect until the policyholder's death as long as premiums are paid. Most permanent life insurance policies also offer some type of savings component that builds cash value over the life of the policy.
